Dear Ms. Hesse:

I am writing in support of the consent decree for the Microsoft settlement. Microsoft has shown itself to be an innovator and a company whose products make lives better for the average American. This lawsuit is bad for consumers and bad for the economy.

By supporting the consent degree, you will put an end to a lawsuit that has become more political than substantive. The Bush administration priorities have been amazingly out of step and out of touch with the American public. Hopefully they will at least get this one right and settle the suit. Then maybe we can all move on to a healthy economy and a healthy debate concerning the future of our nation.

Thank you.

Sincerely

Tim Allison
