Subject: Capitulation

I must voice my objection to the so-called settlement with Microsoft. It is nothing more than outright capitulation. The settlement is nothing more than a slap on the hand to a convicted monopolist. Every provision that appears to have consequences has loopholes to escape through. Nothing was even attempted in regards to the bundling in XP. It's a travesty.

There is nothing better than a free market, but it won't be free until MS is brought under control.

Microsoft is "pleased" with the settlement; doesn't that speak volumes?
