It is my personnel opinion that Mr. Gates is smart enough to come up with all the software ahead of other companies that the Government should leave him alone and his company. The plain truth is that no one wants to be outdone and get the kind competition that Microsoft is dealing out.

this is suppose too be the land of opportunity and free enterprise.

If the Government wants too get a large Company for antitrust law breaking they should take a long and hard look at The Coca Cola Company. These people hold a greater monopoly than Microsoft. Investigate and you will find out that this is very true!

God Bless
