Subject: Microsoft donation is a joke

My name is Jean-Philippe,

I think if the US accepts the settlement offered by Microsoft the government is just saying that there is no more justice in this world.

There only given their software away, it costs them nothing, perhaps only the CD they put the software onto. They don't loose any part of the market since those school probably wouldn't have the money to by the OS and software anyways. And what about in 5 years, those schools won't have more money purchase their software. So they are not helping the system at all.
It is just a joke.
