I am writing to tell you that I am strongly opposed to the current settlement that's being proposed in the Microsoft case. Microsoft has been demonstrated to be a monopoly by the courts, but the present settlement does not appear to do anything to reign in their behavior, which has been bad for consumers. Microsoft appears to be trying with Windows XP to get away with the same sort of monopolistic behavior it used against Netscape only this time it's being directed against the entire computer world.
