Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Under the Tunney Act, I am giving my view on the Microsoft Settlement case.

I believe that the settlement is unfair to the United States and is in favor of Microsoft. The courts should not rule to settle, but instead keep prosecuting until a settlement is reached where Microsoft is broken up or somehow made to pay for being guilty.

For example, putting their (Microsoft) software in school computers is not payment, it is a good thing for the company as more young kids will learn and therefore prefer MS products.

Also, the settlement protects companies in commerce -- organizations in business for profit. But non-profit companies need to be protected too. For example, Apache has a very large market share of servers and it is non-profit.

Finally, I would like to recommend Steve Satchell for one of the positions on the committee that will oversee Microsoft.

sincerely,
