Dear DoJ,

Please, it is time for this issue to be put to rest. The entire case revolves around the fact that Microsoft's competitors do not have the will or desire to get out and work hard to develop the technology to compete with Microsoft. They would rather cry and go running to the government. Why not, it is easier and cheaper for them.

Microsoft pumps millions of dollars into the US economy. They have for many years and they can for many more if everyone will just leave them alone. In addition, Microsoft develops technology that not only makes the US stronger, but also makes it easier for the average consumer to do what they want to with their personal computer. In addition, Microsoft delivers this technology at a tremendous value.

Thank you!
