

From: Jim Sexton
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/7/02 12:39am
Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Dear Sirs:

It is time to move on!!! It is a very good thing to have this settlement behind us, well almost. Let us not loose sight of the fact that if there had not been a Microsoft to set the technology standards in this country, we would not be the leader in technology for the world. Technology people always think their mousetrap is better than the other guy's. Well, so what, if Microsoft had not forced the standards that exist today, we wouldn't be able to buy a computer for $900 that is more powerful than Big Blue's mainframes in the 80's. Think about it, would be able to do the thinks we take for granted today, without the PC. We should just standup and thank Microsoft for being a company in the United States of America and not somewhere overseas.

A very pleased consumer. Let's tell all the whiners to shut up and get to work. If they don't like what Microsoft has done for the consumer, why don't they invent a better mousetrap that I will buy, instead of Microsoft's. So far, they haven't done anything but whine and cry.

Jim Sexton

Send and receive Hotmail on your mobile device: <http://mobile.msn.com>