Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I just want to say that I think Microsoft has been hounded more than enough. If other companies worked as hard to keep the economy going as they do to unjustly take advantage of Microsoft we all would be in better shape. It seems to me that those other high-tech companies who are competitors of Microsoft want to keep kicking Microsoft in the hopes that they will gain what they couldn't gain through their normal business practices. I believe the proposed settlement is more than fair.
