Subject: Microsoft Ligitation

The time has come to move on. Penalties have been assessed, fair or not, so lets put it to sleep.

Continuing will cost US Tax Payers more money along with adding to the uncertainty of the overall market place in general. It also acts as a restraint on Microsoft stock of which most investors (US Tax Payers) own, either directly or indirectly (via funds). This litigation has cost us more due to the uncertainty than any monopolistic endeavor by Microsoft.

The time has come to put this to rest...
