Microsoft is and has never been a monopoly. During the Clinton administration they saw a company that was extremely succesful and the left wanted a piece of that money like usual. They have no reason to be involved or break-up divide or try to run their business. They have contributed to this economy they pay high taxes they have created many many jobs. The case should be dropped not settled and the government should pay them a big apology for the left wings greed for power from money. sincerely
