Greetings:

I am writing to voice my opposition to the proposed Microsoft settlement. This is clearly a bad settlement from the customer's point of view, as it does practically nothing to remedy the anti-competitive behavior that Microsoft has been found to practice (and, in a show of utter contempt, is continuing to practice even now with "features" in XP and so forth). There are already available some well-written analyses of the defects in the settlement (e.g. see <http://www.kegel.com/remedy/>), from a wide variety of viewpoints. I will not repeat them here, but instead request that you add my voice to this crowd of consumers asking our government to stand up for us rather than for monopolistic practices.

Sincerely,
