To whom it may concern,

I feel the proposed antitrust settlement between Microsoft, Inc. and the U.S. Department of Justice is not the right way to go. The last thing we want is to give a company (Microsoft) that has been deemed guilty of anticompetitive practices an even larger stranglehold on the market by contributing software for "free." It doesn't make sense to me to give Microsoft an even larger market share as a punishment for doing unfair things to other companies to gain market share.

We should be looking at alternatives. Make Microsoft provide the hardware, and use Linux, a free, stable, secure and public Operating System. Or even make Microsoft purchase Macintoshes instead.

No one but Microsoft will benefit from more installed Microsoft software.

Thank you very much for your time.
