Subject: Proposed Microsoft Settlement

As a citizen of the United States, and as a member of the business community, I fear that the proposed settlement in For the Microsoft antitrust case is inadequate. The proposed settlement does not represent the best interests of US citizens. It does not prevent Microsoft from stifling innovation. Microsoft's monopoly status has hurt productivity and innovation in this country, and worldwide. Dan Kegel, Los Angeles, Software Engineer, Ralph Nader and James Love of the Consumer Project on Technology, have all shown that the proposed settlement does has problems that must be addressed in order for an effective and just settlement to be reached.
