Any company with this much contempt for the laws of our nation should been taught a lesson. Microsoft's monopoly has hurt the development of computing and created an atmosphere where smaller developers simply give up on projects instead of trying to compete with a company willing to do whatever it takes to beat them for no other reason than to beat them. Microsoft produces products that are full of programming errors and poor security that has cost many companies, schools and government offices millions if not billions of dollars. They are not an asset to this country, they are a cancer. And no settlement that adds to Microsoft's monopoly should be considered.
