I do not believe that Microsoft's proposal for a settlement to their antitrust suit is satisfactory in the least. They have proposed their settlement

1. to effectively take squatter's rights on a slice of the educational market they can't win by ordinary measures and
2. to put those users and organizations on the Microsoft upgrade treadmill.

Their proposal does nothing to address the original DOJ complaints, and in fact, reasserts their predatory nature on the marketplace. Please do not accept their proposal.
