The Microsoft settlement should remain in place. One of the most successful and prosperous businesses in the US should now be permitted to continue to prosper and innovate for the millions of consumers that owe their new knowledge and way of living to this great American corporation. The settlement is fair for all parties. It is not the consumer who is instigating further litigation. Look to the lawyers and competing corporations wanting to increase their own fortunes with less effort or innovation.

Hope you take this small voice into consideration.
